

VAYNE

- Name: Nicholas Vayne.
- Gender: Male.
- Age: 32.
- Ethnicity: Caucasian.
- Birthplace: Clearwater, Florida.
- Favorite Weapon (firearm): Pistol.
- Favorite Weapon (melee): Tire iron.
- Profession Before Outbreak: Con Man, Drifter

CHARACTER

Vayne is a smarmy bastard, untrustworthy and distrustful. He's also charming, sharp tongued and capable, which makes him of value for his group.

Before the outbreak Vayne was a conman, a drifter and a thief, so he knows how to get in and out of places he's not supposed to be. His life as a gang member in Florida has taught him a toughness that comes in handy in the post-apocalypse world.

Vayne's not all bad: he does care about the people close to him. There's a conscience buried under the scars and hardships he endured. But before Vayne decides to like someone, he puts them to the test, as if he's challenging them to like him first.

In a crisis, Vayne tends to do what benefits him personally, disregarding morals or the benefit of his group.

RELATIONSHIPS

Himself: Vayne loves himself and thinks he deserves the best of everything. That's his reward for playing the game better and smarter than everyone else. Vayne believes the world's not fair (it certainly hasn't been to him) and there's no sense in pretending otherwise. Deep down, though, his cocky attitude masks the hurt of a little boy acting out...

Player: Vayne will constantly test your worthiness as a leader. He believes he's better than you, he just can't seem to get everyone else to agree. That said, he's not dumb enough to actually want to be leader himself, he knows leaders are the first to fall when shit goes sideways.

Maya: Vayne and Maya are like oil and water. The former sees the latter as someone to steer clear of: he senses perfectly well that Maya has a bullshit detector that's stronger than his charm. Yet, as long as Maya is Vayne's best chance to survive, he sticks with her for as long as it takes. Vayne and Maya's relationship improves over time, as they survive through numerous dramatic events and learn to appreciate each other's good sides.

Rory: Vayne would like to tell you how little he cares about Rory, but she breaks through his tough guy walls and is the one person he might actually stick his neck out for voluntarily and unconditionally.

Coach: Vayne and Coach have a mutual understanding based on the hardships of pre-outbreak life. However Coach's kindheartedness is sometimes getting on Vayne's nerves. Where Vayne primarily looks out for himself, Coach prioritizes the well-being of others.